

. THIS WEEK AT THE CENTER FOR ETHICS*

Friday, January 2, 2009

- National Service Projects

- Dr. Stoll is serving on NASPE's (National Association of Sport and Physical Education) Code of Ethics Task Force. The committee is charged with writing a code of ethics for their 16,000 members who include k-12 physical education teachers, coaches, athletic directors, athletic trainers, sport management professionals, researchers, and college/university faculty who prepare physical activity professionals. The other members of the team are R. Scott Kretchmar, professor of exercise and sport science Pennsylvania State University and probably the leading sport ethicist in the US, Angela Lumpkin, former Dean, School of Education, University of Kansas, and presently professor department of health, sport, and exercise science, and Russell L. Carson, of Louisiana State University.
- Dr. Stoll serves on the Research Consortium Awards committee and recently reviewed five graduate research proposals for the Research Consortium awards. The Research Consortium of the American Alliance of Health, Physical Education, Recreation, and Dance advances, promotes, and disseminates quality research within and across the disciplines and the professions served by AAHPERD. Dr. Stoll also serves as a reviewer for the Research consortiums grant awards for beginning as well as advanced researchers in the field.

- Servant Leadership in Coaching

- *John Traner, Football Coach at Sandpoint High School., finished his 30 hour online Coaching education program through the Center for ETHICS. A letter was sent to his principal and a press release to the Sandpoint paper, the Bonner County Bee, informing them of Mr. Traner's work in servant leadership.