Robert Ellington, a middle school science teacher in Columbia, South Carolina emailed and wanted more information about the Center's curriculums which are available through the Idaho MarketPlace. Ellington learned about the Center through "Every week a season: A Journey inside big time college football" by Brian Curtis. Curtis' book was an exploration of perennial powerhouses, like Colorado State and Florida State, over the course of the 2003 college football season.

Curtis, B. (2005). Every week a season: A journey inside big-time college football. New York: Ballantine Books.

Dina Mijacevic will be defending her dissertation titled, "Where mind meets body- It's not just a workout". Her defense will take place on Friday, November 16th, at 9:30 in the Student Recreation Center classroom. Dr. Georgia Johnson, Dr. Sharon Stoll, Dr. Jennifer Beller, and Dr. Jeff Bailey are on Dina's dissertation committee. Dina is Dr. Stoll's 24th Ph.D. Student.

Dr. Stoll did an article review for the International Journal of Sports and Science & Coaching, Leeds, England. The International Journal of Sports Science & Coaching is a peer-reviewed, international, academic/professional journal, which aims to bridge the gap between coaching and sports science.

Dr. Stoll has had an initial invitation to be a "Distinguished Scholar" and present a general college lecture as well as colloquium presentations to Walla Walla University, a Seventh Day Adventist University, at College Place, Washington.

The Center for ETHICS* and The World Anti-Doping Agency (WADA) are working on a collaborative education project, Competing with Honor: To Dope or Not to Dope. One of the projects goals is to educate high-level athletes on the value competing drug free. Upon successful completion of the initial project the course will become part of WADA's educational curriculum. If you would like to have your athletes participate in the project please contact Dr. Stoll at (ssstoll@uidaho.edu).
