

Ethical Theory and Honor in Competition and Sport

RIGHT WRONG

The Center for ETHICS* at the University of Idaho offers study, intervention, outreach, consultation, and leadership in developing and advancing the theory, knowledge and understanding of character education including moral and ethical reasoning, moral development, ethical leadership, and ethical application. The Director of the Center for ETHICS* is Dr. Sharon Kay Stoll.

As a member of the editorial board, Dr. Stoll submitted two reviews to Quest in the last week. Quest's primary purpose is to publish manuscripts 1) that address issues and concerns relevant and meaningful to the field of kinesiology; 2) that are original research reports that address empirical questions that are contextualized within higher education and hold significance to a broad range of faculty and administrators in kinesiology; and 3) that provide a review of literature and/or research of interest to one or more sub-disciplines in kinesiology.

Doctoral Candidate David Ruiz (Dr. Stoll's 34th doctoral student) spent the summer at the Center for ETHICS* developing an instrument and collecting preliminary data on fundamental locomotor skills. David was intentionally here at Idaho as an instructor for the Athletic Training MSAT summer program at the University of Idaho.

Lisa Brown, Dr. Stoll's 36th doctoral student, submitted her candidacy packet to her doctoral committee. Lisa is a certified principal and is in residency in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Drs. Stoll and Beller plus graduate students received word that two of their research proposals were accepted for fall presentations.

Rice, M., Stoll, S. K., & Beller, J. (Accepted). Anti-fat bias in pre-professionals. Reno, NV: Western Society of Kinesiology and Wellness.

Shaw, A. H., & Stoll, S. K. (Accepted). Disability: The inteconnection of beauty, body, and perception. Reno, NV: Western Society of Kinesiology and Wellness.

Upcoming Events

Dr. Stoll and her 38th doctoral student, Aubrey Shaw will be presenting a webinar for SHAPE AMERICA's webinar series "By You, For You" on August 9, 2017. This webinar will be the culmination of six months of preparation and over 20 hours of preparation.

Shaw, A. H., & Stoll, S. K. (2017, August 9). Disability, play, and possibilities. Reston, VA: SHAPE AMERICA.

Aubrey Shaw, Dr. Stoll's 38th doctoral student, has accepted to present at the University of Idaho's graduate school TA/RA orientation on August 18th, 2017. She will be collaborating with the Disability Support Services on campus.

Shaw, A. H., Dobbins, A., & Racich, L. (2017, August 18). Disability awareness: Language, resources, and considerations. Moscow, ID: University of Idaho.