Canary Wharf and Shakespeare

10:30 Visit Canary Wharf Crossrail Station Roof Garden

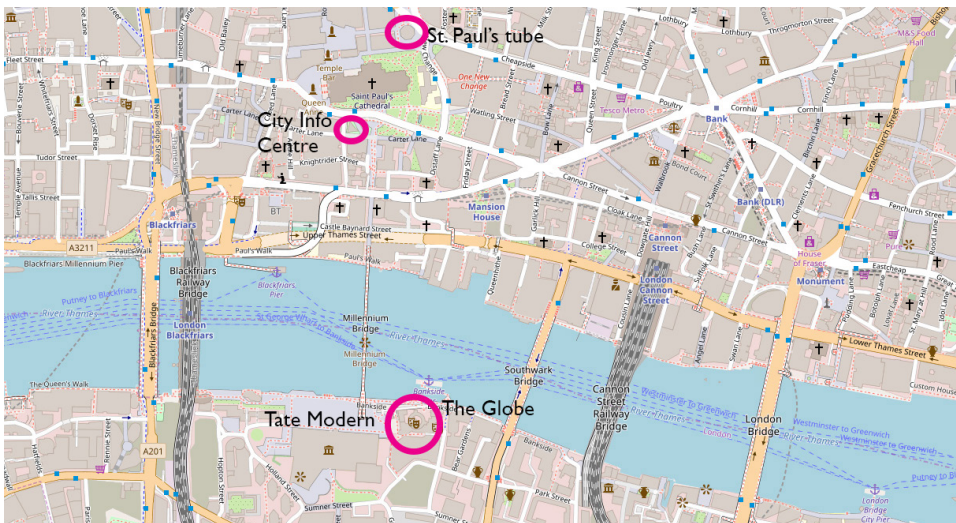

It has a diagrid vault of glu-lam timbers and fritted ETFE glazing. Designed by Foster and Arup.

11:30 Visit Lily Jencks Studio's pop-up garden "The Quintessential English Garden: what does it mean to be local?" in Cabot Square. Last day for this installation!

12:00 Working lunch at Pizza Express Canary Wharf, 2nd Floor, Cabot Place East, Canary Wharf, London, E14 4QT <<https://www.pizzaexpress.com/canary-wharf>>. (£16 limit/per person, alcohol purchased individually) [Mae they have a nice vegan menu, check it out.]

14:00 Discovery Exercise of your choice.

19:00 Sketching Session at the Globe (gates open about then).

19:30 "A Midsummer Night's Dream" (booked-bring your ticket!) Shakespeare's Globe Theatre, 21 New Globe Walk, Bankside SE1 9DT <<https://www.shakespearesglobe.com/whats-on/>>.

N O T E S

GETTING THERE.

Tube. King's Cross Northern Line to Bank, change to DLR to Canary Wharf tube station.

Walk. A few blocks to the Crossrail Station, go to the roof.

The Quintessential English Garden

Other stuff of interest:

- Docklands Museum on North Quay (free)
- Waitrose Store (lovely fritted glass shading strategy)

GETTING BACK.

Tube (suggested). Canary Wharf Jubilee Line to central London and your Discovery Exercise of choice.

GETTING THERE.

Tube. Central Line to St. Paul's.
Walk. From St. Paul's tube station around St. Paul's Cathedral to the triangular City Information Centre (Make Architects) across the street. Walk down Peter's Hill to the Millennium Bridge. You can see the Globe Theatre from the bidge!
