

THIS WEEK AT THE CENTER FOR ETHICS*

Friday, April 2, 2010

Media Interview

- Dr. Stoll was telephone interviewed by Orlando Sentinel reporter, Josh Robinson, this week on the ethics of NBA teams supposedly playing the odds and perhaps losing games to gain a better draft number.

IRB

- Dr. Stoll as a member of the University of Idaho Institutional Review Board reviewed a research project for approval by IRB.

Data Out

- As consultants for Winning with Character, the Center evaluates data on moral reasoning for football teams contracted under WWC. This week the Center finished data evaluation for a Catholic high school in California.

Blog Out

- The Center posted a blog, "Should we forgive Tiger?" on our blog site at <http://www.ethicswithdoc.com>. The blog was written and developed by Ph.D. student Tom Grant.

Reference Written

- Dr. Stoll wrote a letter of reference for an HPERD student who is attempting to be accepted into the residency program with the Moscow Fire Department.

New Web Domain for Center

- In order to improve our visibility on the web, we have secured a new web domain for the center, www.sportethics.us. We hope that the new domain will help us secure a higher level response on a web search. Ph.D. student Clinton Culp secured this site for us with the help of ITS.

Honor Student Presents

- Dr. Beller and one of her honors students at WSU Emily Cox had a research paper accepted for a poster presentation at the Inland Northwest Health Science Research Symposium. Emily was also selected as the developing scholar podium presenter "runner-up".

Up Coming Events

- Dr. Stoll has been invited by Phi Kappa Phi to attend the national convention in August of 2010, all expenses paid, to represent the University of Idaho Chapter as an outstanding chapter of merit. Dr. Stoll is president of Phi Kappa Phi, Chapter 79.
- Dr. Stoll and Dr. Kimberly Robertello are scheduled to present at the 31st annual meeting of the Society of Behavioral Medicine in Seattle, WA, April 8, 2010.
- Dr. Stoll and Dr. Van Mullem, Dr. Stoll's 17th finished doctoral student who is an assistant professor at St. Cloud University, are scheduled to present at the 2010 North American Society for Sport Management in May in Tampa, FL. Dr. VanMullem is also presenting on using online blogs to enhance classroom discussion.
