

THIS WEEK AT THE CENTER FOR ETHICS*

Friday, May 14, 2010

CEUs Completed

- Travis Destache from University of Wisconsin – Stout, and James Wynn of Epson Lee High School in Georgia finished their CEU in Sport Servant Leadership. The Sport Servant Leadership Course was developed by the University of Idaho Center for ETHICS* to assist coaches and teams in developing a sense of unity built upon a foundation of character. The course creates an environment to aid the coach in their quest to become a servant leader. Coaches certified in the Sport Servant Leadership Course learn the traits, gifts, and the mission of individuals who are servant leaders. Upon completion the coaches receive the 3 hours of CEU from the University of Idaho; a certificate of completion, a press release to their local paper, and a confirmation letter to their principal and athletic director.

Press

- Dr. Stoll was featured in an article in the Kinsap SunTimes on May 2. An article on moral development of athletes was written by Howie Stalwick.

Featured Site

- Dr. Stoll and Dr. Andrew Rudd of Florida State University Sport Management, were featured in a discussion of the Pros and cons of Playing Sport, on the Communications on Sports business Blog site. <http://csbcomsportsbiz.com/2010/03/01/fdfe/>

IRB.

- Dr. Stoll sits on the IRB at the University of Idaho and reviewed a proposal for research approval through IRB (Institutional Review Board).

Hiatus

- This Week at the Center will be on Hiatus from May 17 – 31. The Center staff will be on break.

Up Coming Events

- Dr. Stoll has been invited by Phi Kappa Phi to attend the national convention in August of 2010, all expenses paid, to represent the University of Idaho Chapter as an outstanding chapter of merit. Dr. Stoll is president of Phi Kappa Phi, Chapter 79.
- Dr. Stoll and Dr. Van Mullem, Dr. Stoll's 17th finished doctoral student who is an assistant professor at St. Cloud University, are scheduled to present at the 2010 North American Society for Sport Management in May in Tampa, FL. Dr. VanMullem is also presenting on using online blogs to enhance classroom discussion.
- Dr. Stoll as a member of the PPRSC of AAHPERD, will be traveling to Washington, D.C., for a planning meeting June 24-26, 2010.