

Ethical Theory and Honor in Competition and Sport

RIGHT WRONG

The Center for ETHICS* at the University of Idaho offers study, intervention, outreach, consultation, and leadership in developing and advancing the theory, knowledge and understanding of character education including moral and ethical reasoning, moral development, ethical leadership, and ethical application. The Director of the Center for ETHICS* is Dr. Sharon Kay Stoll.

Dr. Stoll was interviewed by Luc Polglaze, Featured Analyst, for Pro Football Spot, LLC. The interview was featured in an article concerning the use of Performance-Enhancing Drugs in the National Football League. The discussion covers the rationale and factors associated with why players risk their playing time, health, and good standing in the NFL to engage in the use of Performance-Enhancing Drugs. You may enjoy the article by viewing the following link.

Dr. Stoll has completed a review of a journal manuscript for the International Journal of Coaching Science.

The Center of Ethics would like to make a correction to a previous newsletter. Dr. Popvosky is a former pedagogical analyst of an integrated scientific group for the 1980 Women's Olympic Volleyball Team, USSR. Dr. Slava Popvosky, affiliate faculty member of the Center, gave two presentations, one in ISEM 101, Sport and Society, and another for Dr. Stoll's doctoral students. His talk was on the difference between training and education systems for coaches and athletes between the former USSR, Russia today, and the USA. In the academic year of 2014-2015, Dr. Popvosky published three collaborative papers. You may view review the papers using the following citations.
