

more in-person ←————→ Less in-person

Course Delivery Method:	Classroom Meeting	Virtual Meeting	Hybrid	Online (Web)
How will the course be delivered?	Classes will be taught on-campus during the times listed in the Class Schedule. Classroom capacity is limited to current health regulations and room space. Can be offered with corresponding section(s). CETL can help merge sections within BbLearn.	Classes will be taught via Zoom (or similar technology) during the times listed in the Class Schedule. Can be offered with a connected Classroom Meeting section.	Hybrid courses are a combination of Online and another format. Classes will be partially taught in-person or virtually during the times listed in the Class Schedule. Students must be available on the days and hours listed. In addition, a significant portion of the course will be taught asynchronously as an online course.	Classes will be taught fully online using BbLearn or other online resources. These courses do not have a regularly scheduled meeting time.
Will students meet in an on-campus classroom?	Yes	No	Yes, but in addition to significant online course components.	No
Are students expected to attend classes at a designated time?	Yes	Yes	Yes	No
Where will the faculty member be located during class sessions?	In the classroom	In a virtual meeting space such as Zoom.	In the classroom or in a virtual meeting space such as Zoom.	Not applicable (no scheduled class meetings)

- Course formats and COVID testing are subject to change depending on current health conditions.
- These are general descriptions of instructional delivery methods. Some variations may be seen for different pedagogical methods (e.g. flipped classrooms), disciplinary differences, classroom spaces, etc. Students should contact the course instructor with questions about course formats.
- Virtual, Hybrid, and Online (web) courses carry a $35/credit web fee.
- Independent Study in Idaho offers online courses. Courses are not semester-based; enroll anytime.
- The Polya website has information about Math courses offered in Polya format.
- The Engineering Outreach website has information about courses in Video format.
- See the Course Schedule for available Videoconference courses at various U of I locations.