An institution may nominate no more than two tenured or tenure-track faculty members to move forward with a NEH Summer Stipend application.

LIMIT ON NUMBER OF FULL PROPOSALS PER PI: 1

AWARD: $6,000

OVERVIEW: The Research and Faculty Development (RFD) team in the Office of Research and Economic Development is requesting notice of intent (NOI) to indicate interest in submitting a proposal to the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) Summer Stipends Program. The University of Idaho can nominate up to two tenured or tenure-track faculty members for this program. Interested individuals must submit a Notice of Intent by 5:00 p.m. PT on Friday, June 7, 2019.

SYNOPSIS: NEH Summer Stipends support individuals pursuing advanced humanities research projects at any stage of development. In the definition of the humanities employed by the NEH, “The term 'humanities' includes, but is not limited to, the study and interpretation of the following: language, both modern and classical; linguistics; literature; history, jurisprudence; philosophy; archaeology; comparative religion; ethics; the history, criticism and theory of the arts; those aspects of social sciences which have humanistic content and employ humanistic methods; and the study and application of the humanities to the human environment with particular attention to reflecting our diverse heritage, traditions, and history and to the relevance of the humanities to the current conditions of national life."

The $6,000 award may be used for the recipient's compensation, travel, and other costs related to the proposed work. Projects typically result in articles, monographs, books, digital materials, translations, editions, or other scholarly resources. Abstracts of successful proposals can be found in the NEH Funded Projects Directory. Extensive information about the competition, including FAQs and samples of successful proposals, is available on the NEH webpage.

ELIGIBILITY & REQUIREMENTS: Faculty members with tenured or tenure-track positions who teach full-time at institutions of higher education must be nominated by their institutions to apply for a Summer Stipend; organizations are not eligible to apply for Summer Stipends. The program will give preference to applicants who have not received a major fellowship or research award or its equivalent within the three academic years prior to the deadline. Applicants may hold only one individual NEH award at a time.
